Chemistry Club Presents Dr. J. DiGiorgio Lecture

Dr. Joseph B. DiGiorgio, Post-Doctoral Fellow in the Chemistry Department of the Johns Hopkins University, will address the Chemistry Club on the "Photosensitized Oxygenation of Monoolefins."

The lecture is scheduled for Wednesday, May 20 at 11 a.m. in S210; faculty and students are invited to attend.

Photochemistry, the study of chemical reactions produced by molecules absorbing light energy instead of heat energy, is one of the "newer" areas of chemical research. Dr. DiGiorgio will explain the use of certain molecules, photosensitizers, that absorb light energy and then pass this energy on to different, non-absorbing molecules. These latter energetically excited molecules now possess sufficient energy to react with oxygen or other molecules. The structure and stereochemistry of the compounds produced will also be discussed.

Dr. DiGiorgio, a graduate of Johns Hopkins, spent several years at the National Research Council of Canada in Ottawa and will join the faculty of Sacramento State College in September. He recently gave an excellent lecture to the Chemistry Club on the Raman Spectra of Organic Compounds."

Pilapil to Receive Doctorate at CU

Mr. Vincent Pilapil, instructor of history at Loyola College successfully passed the oral examination for his doctorate on March 19, 1964 at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

Mr. Pilapil is now expected to be awarded the degree at the June commencement ceremonies at the Catholic University.

Mr. Pilapil had been working for his doctorate since 1961, and the subject of his treatise was, "Spain and the European State System 1898-1918." The treatise is a study of Spanish foreign policy on the eve of the First World War.

This topic corresponds with the subject of the book on which Mr. Pilapil is presently working for Twain Publishers, dealing with the subject of Spanish internal history.

Mr. Pilapil also received his masters degree from Catholic University in 1961. From 1961-1962, he taught at Georgetown University, and then in 1962, he came to Loyola College.

Mr. Pilapil has also written historical articles which have appeared in "The Americas" and "The Pacific Historical Review."

He is presently conducting the Latin-American seminar.

Dramatic Society Elects Officers

The Masque and Rapier Dramatic Society announces the election of its new officers for the 1964-65 school year.

John Baesch was elected president. The other members of the Board of Directors of the Society were appointed by the President.

Vincent Lowe remains in his post as Production Executive, while Freshman Fred Kiefer steps into the post of Director of Publicity which was vacated by Mr. Baesch on his election.

Production plans for 1964-65 include the comedy, Tea and Sympathy and Kanin's Born Yesterday.

Loyola, Notre Dame Meet at "Land-Ahoy"

Loyola and Notre Dame are sponsoring a joint affair tomorrow.

"Land-Ahoy" will commence at 2:30 at Loyola with a lacrosse game against C.W. Post College. After the game, at 5:30, Notre Dame will host Loyola at a barbecue, complete with The Saratogas. Admission to the barbecue is $1.00, and open to Loyola and Notre Dame students only.

Those students who wish to attend are requested not to bring a date. This affair is part of the cooperative program to improve social relations between the two colleges.

All students are urged to attend and help dispel the unfavorable mutual reputations of Loyola and Notre Dame.

"Land-Ahoy" will be the last social event open to all students.

Tickets can be purchased from class representatives.

College Reaches Required Quota

The student and faculty of Loyola College inaugurated an individual Red Cross program last Friday.

The program was under the direction of Father Wise, with sophomore Dan Whalen acting as chairman. Dan is also vice-chairman of the Red Cross Inter Collegiate Council.

A combined total of 56 students and faculty members turned out Friday to donate some 51 pints of blood, one more than the quota of 50 pints. Five of the potential donors were deferred for various reasons.

Next Year

If continued interest is manifested in next year's donation, Loyola will probably be able to establish a blood program for the entire college.

Those who contributed will receive coverage for one year. An unmarried student's parents, and his parent's unmarried children, are also covered, while they are in the United States or Canada.

The turnout of 56 was far below the expected 186 who indicated their willingness to contribute.

Those students who contributed their time to this program were: Dan Whalen, Skip Siewerski, John O'Shea and John Sherwood.

Loyola will remain as an individual program until more students and faculty members are willing to contribute.

J. Kenneth Galbraith To Address Graduates

The Class of 1964 of Loyola College will have their commencement exercises on the Evergreen campus, Sunday, June 7, 1964 at 6:00 p.m. in the evening.

The Class of '64 consists of one hundred and ninety-three graduates. Fourteen Bachelor of Arts degrees will be conferred. Fifty-five graduates will receive the Bachelor of Science degree in Natural Science; thirty-eight will receive the B.S. in Social Science, and eighty-six are to be given the B.S. degree in Business.

The June graduates will hear the Reverend Walter Power at the annual Baccalaureate Mass. Reverend Power, who is celebrating the 25th anniversary of his graduation from Loyola, is also the brother of Mr. J. Carroll Power of the Business Department. The celebrant of the mass will be Father Vincent Beatty, President of the college.

The R.O.T.C. Commissioning Ceremonies will immediately precede the commencement exercises at 4:30 in the afternoon. This year forty-one cadets will be commissioned as Second Lieutenants of the United States Army.

The speaker at the commissioning ceremonies will be Major General Arthur S. Collins, Jr., Director of Officer Personnel, Office of Personnel Operations, Washington, D.C.

Ambassador to Speak

The Speaker who will deliver the main address to the graduates is the Honorable John Kenneth Galbraith, former Ambassador of the United States to India and Professor of Economics at Harvard University.

Prior to his address, the College will confer the honorary degree of Doctor of Law upon Mr. Galbraith.

A native of Canada, John Kenneth Galbraith received his Bachelor's degree in Agriculture from the Ontario Agriculture College and a Master of Science and Doctorate in Economics from the University of California. He also studied at Cambridge University and has taught at the University of California, at Princeton and at Harvard.

During World War II, Mr. Galbraith was Deputy Administrator of the Office of Price Administration and later a director of the United States Strategic Bombing Survey.

After the war, he was the head of the Office of Economic Security Policy in the Department of State. He was awarded the Medal of Freedom and the President's Certificate of Merit for his wartime services. He then served as editor of Fortune for several years.

EditorialsTo The Seniors

The Class of 1964 will graduate from Loyola College on Sunday, June 7. This is the end of their formal undergraduate education. Many will continue their studies in graduate schools and professional schools throughout the country.

Physically these seniors will no longer be present on Loyola's campus; they will now become alumni and will still be associated with the college. Many, unfortunately, will forget their alma mater feeling that once they graduate they have nothing to do with Loyola ever again.

This is not true. A student spends four years here going through many experiences which will shape his future and his career. The college has offered the student many opportunities in studies and in the over 30 activities on campus. Now it is the student's turn to offer something to the college.

The first thing is not to forget Loyola but to continue to support it through the alumni association. It is still your college. The friends made here are also part of your life and should not be forgotten. Loyola should mean something to a graduate other than just a place where you sat for classes for four years and that's it.

The things learnt here are for a purpose--to help a student develop maturity and responsibility which he will use throughout his life. Loyola has done its best to instill this purpose. Now it is up to each individual not to let her down.

Class of '65

The Class of 1965, next year's senior class, held a class meeting Wednesday. Bill Scholtes, the outgoing president, and Don Rohleder, the incoming president presided at the meeting.

The general line of thinking among these students was that they are to be the leading class in the school next year. It is now up to them to prove to the rest of the school, the faculty, and the administration that they are the leaders of the college.

With this in mind plans were proposed to unify the class into the most effective and active class this college has ever seen. The present senior class had had much spirit throughout their career at Loyola. Next year's seniors hope to duplicate and exceed this reputation. It will not be easy at first. But under the guidance of Rohleder much can be done in the right direction.

One of the best suggestions, and one which other classes can take note, was to have a stag party so that each member of the class will know one another. It is extremely difficult for a class to act as a class if the members do not know each other.

Fortunately there is a strong core of present juniors who have and will continue to work for the college. Now it is the object of this nucleus to incorporate all the class members. Next week another meeting will be held to discuss specifics for next year.

It is the aim of the Class of 1965 not to merely work for its own class but to make Loyola a better college for everyone. The GREYHOUND supports their efforts and hopes they will achieve their end--for a better academic and social college life.

Nice Going

Special mention to the seniors who won fellowships and assistantships is made on page three. These students have worked hard during their college career and now are being rewarded for their efforts. They are to be congratulated by the GREYHOUND. The underclassmen should take note of these awards and feel proud that Loyola turns out such men. They in turn should plan to be as successful in their future.

The Minute Man

By Gary Atkinson

The Student Council held its latest meeting on Friday May 8.

The topics discussed were the removal of Brian Copenhaver as Activities Representative, and a new Elections Amendment to the Constitution.

A few weeks ago Mr. Pierpont brought to the attention of the Council the fact that Mr. Copenhaver had five unexcused absences of Council meetings, while only four excused absences are allowed for the two semesters.

Last Friday Mr. Copenhaver was asked to give an explanation of his absences, and the members of the Council voted to allow him to read a letter he had composed for that purpose.

Mr. Copenhaver gave as an explanation the fact that, "a coalition of Seniors have, by failing to cooperate with the underclassmen, created a situation whereby the Council is an unrepresentative body."

After a discussion by Mr. Pierpont, the Council voted not to remove Mr. Copenhaver as the Activities Representative.

New Amendments

Next on the agenda were several newly proposed amendments to the Constitution concerning the Elections Committee.

One amendment proposed to place all Seniors on the committee in the event that all the Sophomore and Junior members of the Council are running for office.

This problem came up during the recent election, and the Council would like to make a decision on it at the present time and thereby avoid a possible repetition of the situation next year.

The Council turned down this amendment in a close vote. However, there was another amendment for the Council to consider.

The other amendment proposes to have two Election Committees, one composed along the present lines for the Freshman Elections, and one made up entirely of Seniors for the general elections.

This amendment was tabled for the future consideration of the Council.

Mr. Keating let it be known at this meeting that next year the Constitution will be in store for a complete overhaul.

Thus the problem of the Elections Committee will probably be solved early next year, before the problem again arises.

New Council

Since this is the last paper of the year, the Minute Man will not be able to cover the future meetings of the Student Council for the Student Body.

Soon the year will be over and the new Council members will be sworn in to office.

The swearing in will take place on Sunday May 17 during the afternoon, and the new members will take office at the next Council meeting.

We can hope that the new year will also bring a new era of Student Council representation. We can also hope that all the promises of reform and rejuvenation do not go stale during the summer break.

We would again like to encourage the Student Body to attend the Council meetings and although there is only one meeting left, it is a very important one. At this meeting the President of the Student Body will deliver his annual report. If you are interested in your school, you should be there.

The Watchdog?!

People get very tired of hearing the same old things all the time. That is the reason we make it the policy of the Watchdog to print the same old things every other week. In this issue we revert (that's with "re", not a "per") to our normal practice of viewing the past year through rose-dusted colored glasses. You will be happy to know that this is our last issue of the year!

In this issue we will recapitulate, felicitate, overrate, prognosticate, masticate, vascillate, syllabicate, congratulate, procrastinate and anything else that will take up space.

That Was The Year That Was

We will take up this space in logical fashion (you better write to Ripley about that) and the topics we will mistreat are as follows: Inside Loyola Faces Misplaced in the News, and Great Moanings and Snorts.

The first face misplaced (?) in the news was that of Billy Hahn whose face won him the UMOC contest. Speaking of misplaced--in one issue we told you all about the CCD, IRC, ROTC, ASN, all without telling what they stood for.

Out of deference to our wish to retain our matriculatory status at Loyola College of the East, we shall forego any disclosure of a John Gunther type article this week, or any other week.

Now for the most interesting section, that of great moanings and snorts as they took place on the athletic field. As usual Hopkins beat the Hounds in track, but the baseball team retaliated over there. Some fresh reporter here keeps insisting that I have it backwards. Who does he think he is kidding. The Dog knows a sure thing when he sees it!

However there were bright spots--Bill Morris won an event, and one shotputters (who can't throw very far, but can throw deep) lost one of the shots in the mud. One of the surprises of the spring saw George Lacey get a base hit in a game that he almost won!

Behind the excellent fouling of "Mc CARRRTHEEE" the Hound basket team wound up a highly successful season. For the Freshmen B-ball team exams wound up a highly successful season.

The year saw some fine reform movements in the Student Council in fact, the Council proved beyond a doubt that people can hibernate well as bears. Frank Wallash receives our tribute for his fine fistic busters that prevented any radical changes in the area of students rights.

We witnessed the first Junior Weekend this year, which included the Moonlight Cruise. However there will be no such event next year, instead the whole affair is being called the "Moonshine Cruise."

The Red Cross visited here this year to collect blood, and found that the Junior class has an average of 85 proof blood. This even shocked the Dog who guessed it to be nearer 90 proof. Most of the blood collected had to be used by their own nurses after they had eaten in our Cafeteria (?).

Science Majors Lead In Fellowship Race

Dental School

In the Dental School category Stan Brull will attend University of Maryland and Bill Bell will study at Georgetown.

Four biology majors received financial aid from graduate school. Lou Albert and John Foertsch received teaching assistantships from the University of Maryland and will pursue their master's degree in the field of zoology.

Bob Pisarski, a business major, will attend American University Law School. To our knowledge this is the only law school acceptance.

Economics and Business

Economics major John Heise received an assistantship from Boston College and Piasecki Phil is going to study business at Maryland's grad school. Also Rel Van Daniker received a teaching assistantship to University of Maryland and will study business.

In the social sciences many seniors were offered lucrative sums to aid them in graduate school. Brian Copenhagen accepted a teaching assistantship in history to Creighton University.

Social Sciences

Frank Walsh, former editor of the GREYHOUND, received an NDEA fellowship to Catholic University amounting to a very large sum.

Archbishop Shehan Ordains Alumnus

Among the 26 members of the Society of Jesus to be ordained to the Sacred Priesthood by the Most Reverend Lawrence J. Shehan, D.D., Archbishop of Baltimore, on Sunday, June 14, 1964, at Woodstock College is Reverend Harry G. Hock, S. J.

Reverend Hock, S.J., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hock of 32 N. Lakewood Ave., Baltimore, Maryland, received his early education at St. Elizabeth School, Baltimore. He is a graduate of Loyola High School (1949) and Loyola College (1953), Baltimore.

Since his entrance into the Society of Jesus in 1953, Father Hock has received his M. A. degree from Catholic University, and taught mathematics at Georgetown University. For the past three years he has been engaged in the study of Sacred Theology at Woodstock College.

Father Hock will celebrate his first solemn Mass at St. Elizabeth Church, Baltimore, on Sunday, June 21, at 12:15. The preacher at the Mass will be the Rev. John J. Scanlan, S.J., of Loyola College.

A reception will be held at the parish hall from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Hopkins and Washington Bow To Hound Netters

The Loyola tennis team defeated the Blue Jays of Johns Hopkins by the score of 8-1 in Mason-Dixon Conference play on Wednesday, May 6.

In this match the Hounds took all six singles matches and won two of the three doubles matches to freeze the victory. The netmen also defeated Washington College by the same score of 8-1. With these victories the Hounds boosted their Mason-Dixon log to 8-0 and in doing so have captured the Northern Division crown. The playoffs will decide whether or not the Hounds repeat their conference championship.

In a match played on Thursday, May 7, at Evergreen, the Hound racketmen defeated Fordham University of New York in a 5-4 squeaker. This particular match began in April, but showers prevented the completion of the tennis ticket.

Before the match was continued in May, the men of Fordham had a 3-1 advantage. First man Russ Tontz and fourth man Tom Kelley won their singles matches to even the score at 3-3. In the first doubles match Russ Tontz and Lou Albert were defeated in three hard-fought sets. Captain Alex Cummings and Tom Kelly won the second doubles match in two sets to even the score at four apiece.

In the deciding doubles match, Bob Malko and Bob Kujawa defeated their Fordham adversaries in two grueling sets of 11-9 and 6-4. This final victory captured the match for the Hounds. For the first year in the seasonal Loyola-Fordham play, a trophy will be given to the winner.

The lapse of time between April and May was a factor in this come-from-behind victory.

Today, the team travels south to Ashland, Virginia, and there they will meet Randolph-Macon for the decisive Mason-Dixon Conference championship match. (Coach Colimore has predicted that the match will prove to be a very close one and that it will go to the wire in both the singles and the doubles matches.)

Morris taking a first.

Morris Scores 24 Points In Smashing Hound Upset

By Fred Dumser

Monday, May 11, started with Loyola's thinclads in high expectation and ended in complete satisfaction all round.

Romping to an 84-52 victory the Hounds' win was never seriously threatened. Sweeping the triple and high jumps, taking first and third in the discus, and winning the broad jump and pole vault, the Hounds took to the track with a 34-11 lead. Bill Morris scored 13 of his 24pts. in the jumping events and soph Jim Creamer, a double winner in the discus and pole vault, and Charlie Cherry in the high jump scored Loyola firsts.

The Hound runners, however, were not to be outdone. Outscoring the Western Maryland thinclads 50-41, the Greyhounds started right out with a 4440yd. relay victory and two members of the team of Pete Ruane, Frank Moritz, Tony Virgilio and Pete Smith, joined with soph Lew Schaffner and high scorer Bill Morris to win the mile relay at meets end.

Hound Nine End Season With Unexpected 6-10 Log

By Dan Whalen

The Hounds talk the season over.

Last Tuesday the Greyhound baseball team finished out the season with a single game against Towson State College.

Reviewing the season proves to be disappointing in many respects. The Hounds bagmen had optimum opportunity to capture both division and conference titles in the Mason-Dixon with a veteran squad of seven returning first string lettermen and a number of able players backing them up.

Early in the season, the chief concern was for the pitching staff with only Relmond VanDaniker and Howie Murray returning to do the hurling. Battery-mates were also lacking in game experience.

Half way through the season these difficulties were overcome and the Hounds had posted an impressive 6-1 overall record and were 5-0 in the conference.

Although the bagmen were winning, worry came with a lack of hits. As the remaining games were played, this deficiency became the cause for defeat. The pitching staff held up well and prior to Tuesday's game against Towson all pitchers had earned run averages below 2. Gene Lacey proved to be a valuable asset on the mound and proudly claims a 1.69 earned run average. Relmond Van Daniker and Howie Murray turned in their usually fine performances on the mound with 1.45 and 0.77 earned run averages respectively.

Jack Sweeney found himself with the top batting average for the season of .308. Bob Rossi followed with a .264 average and Bill Falkenhan is third with a .250 average.

Ted Kreamer, Tom Blair, and Lance Hartley filled the deficit behind the plate caused by graduation losses last year.

One positive thing may be said of the Hounds this season. In spite of their downhill slide toward the end of the season, The Hounds went onto the field for every game looking for victory, especially last Saturday against Washington College. Despite suffering two tough losses, the Hounds' spirit remained strong.

Next year will find more losses in the infield and pitching as graduation ceremonies retire seniors Relmond Van Daniker, John Campbell, Mike Elliott, and Bill Falkenhan.

Stewart Hits Five Times As Hounds Down Hofstra

By Stan Hellman

Tomorrow's game with C.W. Post marks the end of another lacrosse season at Loyola, and another win would mean a 7-2-1 mark, the best ever for a Hound stick squad.

Post boasts a good record this season and is led by last year's leading scorer and goalie in the nation. In the former category, Tom Postel had 96 points last year, while goalie Ed Sutton had more saves than any other netminder in collegiate lacrosse.

On the other hand, the Hound stickmen are coming off their best tow of the year. A 10-7 victory over W and L and the 9-4 triumph against Hofstra featured strong defensive play and effective ball control on offense.

In these two games, the Loyola ten jelled into a cohesive unit. These were certainly the season's highlights. Other wins this season were against MIT, Swarthmore, Penn State, and Towson. The Hounds lost to Washington College and Hopkins, but tied Delaware.

Leading the offense this year again was John Stewart, who has 22 goals and 10 assists to date. Behind him are Bill Asher and Lou Becker with nine and eight goals respectively.

After edging out Harry Bregel for the starting position, Tony Federico proved to be an effective clearer as well as guardian of the goal. The defense improved substantially as the season progressed. Freshmen Tim Martin and Dan Hartman and junior Jack Palmer formed into a skillful unit. Bill McGinnis provided good reserve strength along with Bob Lister, who picked up the game quickly in his first year of lacrosse.

The close attack and midfield got together toward the season's close. The first midfield of John Stewart, John White, and Marty Pilachowski were backed up by the team of Bill Asher, Jim Norton, and Steve Kohoskie. John Skoglin, Henry Stewart, and Lou Becker formed the first attack.

The affair tomorrow should prove a handy letdown after the tension of the game with C.W. Post.

Focus

On Sports

By Bernie Vondersmith

This week the roving camera focuses on senior first baseman Bill Falkenhan who is presently leading the Hounds bagmen in runs batted in.

The hefty fielder has been guarding the first base line for three years, having played the outfield in his freshman season.

Bill has a strong baseball background. Playing for four years at Loyola High School, he was the first man to put one off the gym wall. He was a member of the Gordon Stores team in 1957 and 1958 when they won 85 straight contests.

Bill Falkenhan

For three years Bill has been an officer of the Green and Grey Club, and has borne his influence on the club's various activities.

In June, Bill will graduate from the Engineering Physics program and take up employment with one of the local companies.

On the field, the Hawk is known for his fielding and bat wielding abilities. He has also participated actively in the intramural program.

Intramurals

By Mario Musotto

Last week intramural softball suffered from a freak accident as the BC's and the Dirty Dozen ended in a split after the BC's picked up two runs in the sixth inning to freeze the action at three all.

This game was continued last Wednesday and the winners met the contending Crusaders immediately afterward. The Mammals and the Loved Ones also clashed on Wednesday.

At noon last Wednesday the Clyde-water Rejects battled the Sharks, and the Moms, who look to be in contention, played the Snouts.

Because of the Loyola Day festivities today, there will be no intramural activity, but last Wednesday's games have already determined who will be featured in the semifinals next Wednesday.

Nap Doherty has announced that the season finals will take place on next Friday, which is the last day of class before exams.

In the games last Friday the Crusaders did a job on the Huckleberry Hounds by amassing ten runs to the Hounds four to gain a berth on the next level. Seven of the nine crusaders crossed the plate during the game. The Crusaders could very well be the team to beat.

Today, in place of intramurals, students have chance to take place in tradition and at the same time to laugh at all the over-weight contestants, especially in the fat man's relay. These events are usually successful and full of fun.
